

Decision tree

I decided to participate in an important event for my work and organized abroad (conference, seminar, stay in a laboratory etc). How will I get there?

Is there a virtual modality of participation that allows me to reach my objectives for this event?

I can participate remotely from my computer or in one of the videoconference rooms set up at the University.

I can watch the event offline if it has been recorded.

Objectives met: professional objectives, time saving, reduction of my ecological footprint (a round trip from Brussels to Rome emits 330 kg CO₂ eq. compared to +/- 0.3 kg CO₂ eq. for 3 hours in teleconference, i.e. 1000 times less).

Is my destination a green or orange city?

My destination is :

- A green city (the door-to-door time of the trip by public transport is less than 6 hours and does not exceed by more than 2 hours the trip by plane: Lyon, Cambridge, Oxford, Amsterdam, Heidelberg, Hanover, etc.): I take the train, the bus or possibly a shared car.

- An orange city (between 6 and 8 hours door to door: Marseille, Nantes, Leeds, Geneva, Montpellier, Hamburg, etc.): I consider the train.

The institutional travel agency offers alternatives on its website. It is also easily comparable on www.rome2rio.com or www.omio.com

Objectives met: professional objectives, time saving, reduction of my ecological footprint (a return trip from Brussels to Marseille by train emits 20 times less CO₂ than the plane).

I take the plane

When I buy my ticket¹, I add a green contribution of 50 euros per ton of CO₂ (to be obtained via a calculator) corresponding to the carbon footprint of the flight.

It is the institute accountant (CLC) who makes this centralized encoding when buying the ticket.

I decide, with my colleagues, which actions to finance with these green contributions in my entity: train tickets, Cambio subscriptions, electric bikes or any other idea to reduce our carbon footprint.

¹My entity, as a signatory of the charter, decides on the budget to support these contributions: various resources, F+E budget, central PNA budget for cooperation-related travels.
